LADY WESMEN VOLLEYBALL 1985-86

WESMEN VOLLEYBALL 1985-86

All Canadian Awards - 1st Team - Michael Stephens; 2nd Team - Hans Hildebrandt; Tournament All Stars — M.V.P. - Jean Pierre Perron (1st year); All Stars - Hans Hildebrandt (2nd year); Michael Stephens (1st year); C.I.A.U. Coach of the Year — David Unruh.

All Canadian Most Valuable Player - Ruth Burchuk; 1st Team - Brenda Boroski; Tournament All Stars — M.V.P. - Brenda Boroski; All Stars - Ruth Burchuk, Suzi Smith.

"Wesmen Sweep", Great Day for Winnipeg Volleyball", and "Volleyball Titles belong to Wesmen" were a few of the headlines that dominated the sports pages in the Winnipeg Free Press and the Winnipeg Sun on March 15 and 16. An unprecedented event occurred when all four Winnipeg teams at the Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union men's and women's volleyball championships (at the University of Moncton) won their respective semi finals on March 14. The double win by the Wesmen teams on March 15th marked the second time in Canadian college volleyball that the same university has swept both titles in a single year. Saskatchewan achieved this in 1979.

The Wesmen women's volleyball team set a Canadian university record in winning its fourth straight national title. "We won because we believe in ourselves" was how head coach Mike Burchuk summarized the victory. "I'm very proud". He added that "the University of Manitoba played very well". Brenda Boroski, named Most Valuable Player, led the tournament with 75 assists and 14 digs. Allison Smith had a career-high 19 kills and 14 digs, Sharon Derksen had four aces and 22 digs, and Ruth Burchuk made 25 kills and 15 digs.

The Wesmen men led by Michael Stephens, J.P. Perron, Hans Hildebrandt and Rudy Dyck were in great shape throughout the tournament. The honour of being named Most Valuable Player led setter J.P. Perron to quip "Hey, I like the way they think out here. They understand French people. And setters."

The University of Winnipeg raised its pair of Canadian championship volleyball banners the evening of March 24 at The University of Winnipeg Athletic Centre.

Profile Roz Usiskin

Roz Usiskin is Director of the Manitoba Multicultural Resources Centre on campus. But she has several ties to the University of Winnipeg. She was a student here, and she also lectured in the University's sociology department. Roz developed an interest in multiculturalism in her childhood. "I grew up in Winnipeg's North End" she said. "My dad was a sheet metal worker with the CNR".

Roz attended Jewish parochial school, and completed Grade 11 at St. John's High School. "Grade eleven was the highest level when I graduated" she said. "But because of financial circumstances at the time, I could not enroll in university."

Roz trained to teach at a Jewish parochial school. When the youngest of her three sons was established in school, Roz returned to St. John's to take grade twelve evening classes. Her enthusiasm for learning prompted her to register for evening classes at The University of Winnipeg. "My favorite subjects were history and sociology" she said. "After two years I decided I should take it more seriously. I changed to day classes — full time". At this time there were few "mature students" at the university — the entrance requirement had just been implemented. But Roz formed some close friendships despite any age differences that existed.

In 1973 Roz graduated with a B.A., winning the Gold Medal in Sociology. She went on to earn her M.A. in Sociology at The University of Manitoba and returned to the University of Winnipeg in 1978 to teach Sociology courses. "By 1982, discussions were taking place as to the possibility of establishing a multicultural resource centre on campus" she said.

Along with a number of others, Roz was instrumental in the birth of the Manitoba Multicultural Resource Centre on campus in June, 1983. Since then, she has been directing the activities of the centre. The mandate of MMRC is to facilitate the preservation of ethno-cultural heritage by acquainting community organizations with such methods as oral history and effective archives storage. "We've tried to link the University with the community" she said. "More groups are realizing that the university is there for them".

Student Exchange

The Canada-U.K. University Student Exchange Program is an opportunity for Canadian undergraduates, primarily those entering the third year of a four-year degree, to spend a year in the United Kingdom while working towards a degree.

University of Winnipeg student John Batzel has successfully applied to the program, listing University College London, University of Exeter, and University of Leeds as the three institutions in the U.K. which he would most like to attend.

Participants in the exchange register and pay tuition to their home universities and are charged no additional tuition overseas. Exchange students are responsible for travel costs and all living expenses.

Students participating in the program are expected to carry sufficient courses to maintain full-time status at the host institution. John Batzel has applied to take a combination of senior (Honours) level courses in any area of history and in such systematic cultural areas of geography as urban, economic and/or historical geography.

John Batzel applied to the exchange program for a number of reasons. "One of the most important potential advantages of a year abroad", he stated, "is the opportunity it presents to develop a sense of direction. At another level, I am looking forward to re-establishing contacts with family and friends in England, many of whom I became close to while there in 1980." John also stated that he is eager for the opportunity to become acquainted with new modes of study and new perspectives on subject matter which a year in an English university would afford. "From my experience and what I have been able to gather, I understand that their approach to higher-level education is substantially different from ours, not only in structure but also in approach. A chance to experience this would perhaps broaden my outlook to a degree not possible in Canada."

Sexual Harassment

On March 19, PACE sponsored a program entitled Sexual Harassment in the University which included a film presentation "Workplace Hustle" and a discussion led by Darlene Germscheid, Executive Director of the Manitoba Human Rights Commission. The theme of the film, reiterated by Ms. Germscheid during the discussion, was that sexual harassment stems from the attitude men and women have about their roles — that which is perceived as sexual harassment by women is perceived as normal by men. The social nature of the male versus female conflict may not be illegal in that it does not contravene any legislation. However, where sexual harassment occurs within a power relationship of employer/employee or professor/student, that action contravenes legislation and legal remedies do exist.

To have recourse under the Manitoba Human Rights legislation, formal complaints of sexual harassment must involve discrimination. Sexual harassment is considered discriminatory if it occurs in an area of service such as employment or rental accommodation, if it is connected with the race or sex of the individual, or if it occurs within a power relationship where power is used to obtain sexual compliance.

An individual subjected to sexual harassment is encouraged to speak up and let it be known that the behavior is unwelcome. A second recourse is to speak to someone senior to the person doing the harassing, and a final recourse is to file a complaint with the Manitoba Human Rights Commission.

Both the respondent and the employer receive a copy of the formal complaint. If a remedy cannot be negotiated, the Commission can present the complaint to a board of adjudication and then to the courts. Most complaints received by the Commission are settled without board adjudication.

A University of Winnipeg policy on sexual harassment is being prepared by a university-wide committee under the chair of Shelley Munro, UWSA. The committee anticipates presenting its report to Dr. Farquhar after all constituencies have had an opportunity to review the latest revisions.

The Possible Dream

Jean E.M. Pigott, Chairman of the National Capital Commission, will give the 1986 Bonnycastle Foundation Lecture in The University of Winnipeg's Bonnycastle Foundation Lecture Series.

"The Possible Dream — Planning the National Capital" is the title of Mrs. Pigott's lecture, to be given Monday, April 7, at 8:00 p.m. in Theatre 3C00 (third floor, Centennial Hall).

Mrs. Pigott has had extensive experience in both the public and private sectors. Prior to her January 1, 1985 appointment as NCC Chairman, she was an integral part of the Right Honourable Brian Mulroney's governmental transition team, playing a special role co-ordinating events during the Papal and Royal tours of 1984. In the private sector, she was Chief Executive Officer of Morrison Lamothe Inc.

Mrs. Pigott served as the Member of Parliament for the riding of Ottawa—Carleton from October 1976 through May, 1979. In June, 1979 she was appointed Senior Advisor for Human Resources to Prime Minister Clark.

Mrs. Pigott, born in 1924, was raised in Ottawa and attended Ottawa Ladies' College, Albert College in Belleville, Ontario, and worked in the United States and Europe. She is married to Arthur C.C. Pigott and has three children.

Communique

Learned Societies to Meet at
The University of Manitoba
May 26 to June 9

The University of Manitoba will be host to over 4,500 social scientists, humanists, and natural scientists at the annual Learned Societies Conference, from May 26 to June 9. The annual meeting of the Royal Society of Canada will be held as part of these events.

The Conference, held each year at a different Canadian university, is the forum for the annual meetings of academic societies; this year, 75 societies will be participating. The Societies primarily represent the humanities and social sciences, and are members of the Canadian Federation for the Humanities (CFH) or the Social Science Federation of Canada (SSFC).

Participating in this year's Conference are such diverse groups as the Canadian Health Economics Research Association, the Canadian Peace Research and Education Association, and the Canadian Society for the History of Medicine.

Many of the papers presented at the meetings by outstanding Canadian researchers will be extremely newsworthy. The University Relations and information office is contacting each society for program details, and conference "highlights" will then be prepared for the media. "Highlights" will include research being conducted in the areas of peace and peace education; women's issues; Jewish history; Canadian and Quebec literature; theatre history; folklore; and labour issues, to name a few.

For further information, contact:

Stefanie Madak, Information and Media Relations Officer, The University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, 204 474-9514, or Michelle Albagli, Communications Officer, Social Science Federation of Canada, Ottawa, 613 238-6112

Count Yourself In

Statistics Canada is required by law to conduct a Census of Population every five years. The next Census will be June 3, 1986.

Every ten years, information gathered from the Census is used for redistribution of representation in the House of Commons. Each Census provides detailed information about the social and economic conditions of the Canadian people.

Census information is essential to a wide range of organizations, particularly businesses and governments. The wide range of topics available from this one source at a national, provincial, and community level makes the Census a unique information service.

Approximately 45,000 people across Canada will be hired to collect the Census. It is planned that 25,000 of them will be students and other young people.

The questions asked include topics such as age, family structure, ethnic origin, languages, education, income, occupations and employment. All questions are approved by Order-in-Council. They have been developed after intensive consultation with data users and other groups as to each question's value.

The 1986 Census will ask three new questions. One asks information about the disabled. The second asks aboriginal status. The third asks those with postsecondary degrees to indicate their area of specialization. The Statistics Act guarantees the confidentiality of information given.

African Playwright to Speak

"African Plays and Playwrights" is the title of a lecture to be given by George Seremba, Friday, April 4, 12:30 p.m. in Studio Theatre.

Born in Uganda in 1958, George Seremba attended Savio School Kisubi and Makerere University Kampala. He graduated with an Honours Degree in English as well as in Music, Dance and Drama. He wrote and directed his first play, The Umbilical Cord, during his final year.

In December, 1980, Seremba escaped from Uganda and began a new life as an exile in Kenya. Since then he has directed and appeared in a number of plays, including his own.

Two years ago Seremba came to a new "home away from home". He has appeared on the stage boards of this country in places like the Centaur in Montreal, the Citadel (Edmonton), Theatre Passe Muraille (Toronto). His brand new play The Grave Will Decide will be workshopped in April 1986.
